FROM THE PRESIDENT'S DESK

The St. James Student Council is an organization which exists to provide services and activities, in addition to championing the causes and rights of students on this campus. It also exists to create the proper and productive liaison among Administration, Faculty and Students here at St. James.

This year sees the Council passing through an important stage in its development, a stage synonymous to that of a "teenager" entering the "adult" world. A great deal of energy, time and effort has been given to seeing the Council arrive at this inevitable "adult" stage, Incorporation. There have been many problems and obstacles along the way, but recently some light has been shining and showing the way. What is incorporation and what does it mean to you? Incorporation means that the Student Council exists not just as an organization but instead becomes an independent legal business operation. Along with this go the responsibilities and liabilities of such an operation and a demand that students accept their new position maturely. Incorporation puts the Student Council in an independent position when dealing with Administration and Faculty, a position from which the Council can speak by either party mentioned above. Your personal responsibility is to become more aware of this development.

Many new services have been added to those presently existing. The Student Council now provides extra convenience by selling T.T.C. tickets and stamps in its office. Students also benefit by a 25% discount on film processing when placed through the Student Council office. Seminars dealing with the issues of great importance to students are conducted on a regular basis in room 185, topics of recent seminars include "The Landlord-Tenant Act," "Changes in Family Law" and "How to Overcome Fear".

There have been some issues which are outstanding and which need your persistence to be settled once and for all. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy", "A healthy body creates a healthy mind" are all too familiar. Yet you are denied the necessity of athletic or physical fitness facilities which every other College and High School in Ontario takes for granted. It's time that your pressures settle this matter finally. The Administration has seen the wisdom in establishing a communication system, as proposed by your Student Council, and has installed numerous video-outlets for that purpose. A step in the right direction. A liquor licence has been finally approved and work is now underway for the construction of a bar to sell beer and wine. Your mature and sensible use of this facility will pave the way for more future enjoyment.

You must remember that you are the reason for the Student Council's existence and that it's your support, encouragement and suggestions which will make this organization a vibrant and dynamic one. Do take part in as many activities as possible. Candy, Andy, Linda, Louis, and I (Lancelot) are eager to serve you. Let's all have a productive year.

ONTARIO SPECIAL BURSARY PLAN 1978-79

The Ontario Special Bursary Plan, part of the Ontario Student Assistance Program, helps meet the education costs of needy part-time students who have little or no post-secondary education.

Aims of the bursary plan

The Ontario Special Bursary Plan:

- encourages people, in serious financial need, to take courses at the post-secondary level to improve their job skills and earning ability; and
- helps especially needy students to continue their programs of study at Ontario post-secondary institutions.

The plan provides assistance to students taking up to 60 per cent of the normal full-course load. Course load is usually defined in college and university calendars. For example, if a normal full-course load is five courses, three courses would be 60 per cent; if a normal full-course load is 30 credits, 18 credits would represent 60 per cent. After beginning on a part-time basis, students are encouraged, where appropriate, to attend full-time.

Eligibility

You may be eligible for an Ontario Special Bursary if:

- you are a Canadian citizen or a landed immigrant, and have been resident in Ontario for 12 consecutive months, not counting time you have spent as a full-time student;

- you are receiving social assistance, are unemployed, or have a low family income;
- you are taking or plan to take credit courses leading to a degree, diploma or certificate; or
- you are taking or plan to take upgrading courses offered by a college of applied arts and technology; and
- you are accepted for registration as a part-time student at one of the following Ontario post-secondary institutions:

- a university
- a college of applied arts and technology
- Ryerson Polytechnical Institute
- the Ontario College of Art
- an approved private vocational school.

What the bursary covers

If you are eligible, you may receive a bursary to cover the costs of tuition and other compulsory fees, books and equipment, and local transportation costs. You may also receive assistance to help cover extra costs, such as baby-sitting to a maximum of $13 per week. The total maximum assistance allowed is $1,200 per academic year.

How to apply

To apply for a bursary, complete the attached application form and submit it to the Student Awards Office of the institution you plan to attend. Your application must be submitted before the last day of the month in which your classes begin.

Payment of your award

If you are eligible for a bursary, a cheque will be sent to you in care of your institution. Your Student Awards Officer will be able to tell you where you can pick up your cheque.

What happens if you drop out

If you withdraw from your program of study after receiving a bursary, you will be asked to repay the unused portion of the bursary. Any tuition fee refund will be returned by the institution directly to the Ministry of Colleges and Universities.

Other financial assistance plans

The Ontario Special Bursary Plan is part of the Ontario Student Assistance Program which also includes:

- The Ontario Student Grant Plan
- The Canada Student Loans Plan, and
- the Ontario Student Loans Plan.

If you are not eligible for an Ontario Special Bursary, you could apply for grant and loan assistance through these plans. You cannot receive a bursary and a grant for the same period of study.

Your bursary and grant eligibility periods

If, in future, you intend to apply for an Ontario Student Grant, you should be aware that the Ontario Student Grant Plan provides a student with grant assistance for his or her first eight periods of study at the post-secondary level. These periods, lasting from 10 to 19 weeks each, are known as "grant eligibility periods."

If you are presently enrolled in a program of part-time study leading to a degree, diploma or certificate, you are using up a portion of your grant eligibility periods, even though you are not receiving grant assistance. The size of your course load determines the number of grant eligibility periods you have left. For example, if you take 50 per cent of a normal full-course load over two terms, you will have used up one Ontario Student Grant Plan eligibility period.

However, if you are taking upgrading courses with bursary assistance, the number of grant eligibility periods is not reduced.

More information

You can get more information on the Ontario Special Bursary Plan and other OSAP plans from the Student Awards Office of participating institutions in Ontario or from: Ontario Special Bursary Plan Student Awards Branch, Ministry of Colleges and Universities.

EDITORIAL

Annually, in September at George Brown College, the new students shyly enter the large front doors of the college, intrigued with the knowledge of being in professional courses and amongst professional people. The older students who have had at least one year under their belts are happily greeting their old friends from semesters past, relating the great adventures that summer brought them, as well as what they hoped to expect of the coming year.

In room 124, the student council is found diligently planning activities and services for all students in order to help us have a more enlightened year at George Brown.

The St. James student council has continued supporting the many clubs around campus such as The Tours "N Travels, The American Marketing Association, The Physical Distribution Club, The Computer Club, The Afro Caribbean Student Union, The Chinese Student Association and The Student Nursing Association, just to mention a few of the clubs that you may see on campus. Ask around, see what they have done. Stay around and see what they can do. In most cases, all it takes to be a member is enthusiasm and participation.

The most important thing that the St. James campus needs that they do not have are athletic facilities. Oh yes, George Brown College has athletic facilities, but not at the campus of St. James. The students of St. James have to travel halfway across the downtown area to use the facilities at Casa Loma and Kensington campus. Those facilities are good to the extent they have developed championship and contending teams in soccer, basketball and volleyball as well as other sports. The Varsity and Intermural teams are excellently organized and coached by Alex Barbier and his staff.

Is it fair that we have to travel so far when we could have it at our finger tips? Last year a student at St. James, Joseph O.B. Okoto stated, "God has given us three kinds of faculties which need development—physical, mental and spiritual. A perfect system of education must do all three. The object of education is threefold and should be directed towards the harmonious development of all faculties. Physical education makes us healthy and strong; education of the mental powers makes us learned and refined; and moral education makes us good and honest. Physical culture makes us to live alright; intellectual, to see alright; and moral to act alright. The perfection of human nature is the true purpose of education."

From the day I heard those words of Akoto, I have never forgotten them.

I agree with him. The three faculties he describes are assets which enrich our education as humans during our life span. The student council is working in hand with the sports department to team up and collaborate with the administration of George Brown College for a start in its active facilities at the St. James campus. The Fullmoon promises to keep you informed on this development. Not only that, but to get into the politics of the entire matter. It has been a hard struggle in the past but we will soon have a gym. The Fullmoon will get involved in the politics of other matters with the administration as long as it affects the affairs of students. The student newspaper, The Fullmoon, always welcomes opinions and suggestions and is willing to look into the questions of anything related to the school and its students.

Thank you.

Handicapped, towards communicating with hearing impaired students?

There are many successful methods to communicate with deaf and hard of hearing students. However, there is no one successful way for communication due to individual personalities and ever-changing situations.

Communication abilities and skills vary according to many factors such as: family environment, language background, degree and type of deafness, personality, age of onset of hearing loss, residual hearing (many deaf persons have some hearing), listening skills, lip-reading, speech abilities, and educational background.

It should be stressed that all hearing impaired people will communicate in various ways at different levels of comprehension to you.

Some hearing impaired will use speech only; some will use a combination of sign language, fingerspelling and speech; some will write; others will use body language and facial expressions to supplement their interactions. The deaf want to communicate with the hearing world and will use many ways to convey an idea.

YOU, AS A HEARING PERSON, MAY HAVE AP- PREHENSIONS ABOUT MEETING A DEAF PERSON. Don't worry; your concerns are natural. Here are SIX COMMUNICATION TIPS which will encourage you to feel comfortable when communicating with hearing impaired persons(s).

1. Tap on the shoulder or wave a hand to gain visual contact.
2. Look directly at the hearing impaired person, while speaking slowly and clearly. Remember exaggeration and overemphasis of words distort lip movements, making speech reading more difficult. Speech reading is an art not all deaf persons have.

Only a small percentage of speech is visible on the lips, and even the best speech readers cannot read everything.

3. Use a written message if needed. Getting the message across is more important than the medium used.
4. Try to maintain eye contact with the hearing impaired person. Eye contact helps convey the feeling of direct communication. If an educational technician is present, continue to talk directly to the deaf person who can turn to the educational technician if the need arises.

5. If you having difficulty getting an idea across, try to rephrase a thought or restate a sentence, rather than repeating exactly the same words.
6. Use pantomime, body language, and facial expressions to help communicate.

Marketing students

On Thursday, April 13, the graduating marketing students of George Brown College were awarded the first place General Electric trophy for presenting an excellent advertising plan to the judging members of the Business Professional Advertising Association.

Several community colleges and universities were invited to participate in the competition involving a case study regarding the pre-fabricated steel building industry and were asked to compile an advertising plan.

George Brown students are tackling the threats of unemployment, first hand, by discovering new opportunity outlets in which to display their talents.

Toronto, Ont.
Dear Sirs:

I enclose a photograph of three of the 1977-1978 Legal Secretarial scholarship winners of the Association together with three Association members listed on the back.

It's occurred to me that you might wish to publish the photograph in your student newspaper as Kathy Kizi was a member of the student body at the George Brown St. James Campus.

If you should decide to publish the picture, I would appreciate receiving a copy of the newspaper in which it appears.

ST. JAMES CAMPUS LIBRARY

St. James campus library staff would like to welcome new and returning students to the campus and invite you all to make a "get acquainted" visit to the library.

We are located in room 114, across from the lecture theatre and, effective September 14, 1978, regular hours of service will be as follows:
Monday-Thursday: 8:00-19:00
Friday : 8:00-17:00

Our holdings on this campus include over 35,000 books and some 300 periodicals in the fields of electronics, graphic arts, business and commerce, and nursing. We have recently added sections for the watch-making and theatre arts courses. There are also books on general interest subjects, fiction, paperbacks for light reading, a picture file for art references, and so on. In addition to study carrels, lounge areas are provided but eating, drinking and smoking are not permitted.

George Brown has other libraries at the Casa Loma, Kensington and Nightingale campuses, each specializing in subject areas taught on those campuses. As a George Brown College student you have access to all these materials, either by going directly to the other library or by requesting that they be sent here for you.

The borrowing period for circulating books is two weeks and may be extended for an additional two weeks provided that no one else has requested the book in the meantime. Back issues of periodicals may be borrowed for three days. Current issues and bound volumes do not circulate. Copies of the three daily Toronto Newspapers are available for reading in the library. Please bring your student card or other George Brown identification when borrowing books or periodicals.

Photocopies can be made at five cents per page and this service is useful for copying information from sources which may not be taken out of the library.

The college film library is located in room 114C, which can be reached by going through the main library. Their collection includes 16mm films, slides, tapes, video cassettes, etc. These materials may be viewed in the library. A screening room is available by appointment for viewing 16 mm films. Hours of service in the film library are the same as those of the print library.

The library staff will be pleased to explain how the library works and to assist you in researching and locating information on this and other campuses.

In order to give the best possible service, we need your co-operation in returning borrowed materials promptly and in treating print and A V materials with care. Your consideration of the rights and needs of others will be much appreciated.

Again we welcome you to St. James and look forward to helping you to have a productive and successful year.

Facts about Alateen

Alateen is — for those in the 12 to 20 age group who live in an alcoholic family situation.

Purposes of Alateen
— to discuss the difficulties teenagers face in which alcoholism plays its destructive role.
— to exchange experiences.
— to encourage one another.
— to help each other understand the principles of Alateen.
— to learn effective ways to cope with problems.

Alateen members learn — that compulsive drinking is a disease; therefore no one should condemn the alcoholic.
— that the sick parent's loss of dignity should not be regarded with contempt but with compassion.

— that it is stupid and self-defeating to resort to acts of reprisal or rebellion from which they alone will suffer the consequences.

— that they are endowed with spiritual and intellectual resources with which to develop their own potentials, no matter what happens at home.

— that their chief concern must be to build satisfying and rewarding life experiences for themselves.

For referral or information — to get in touch with the nearest Alateen group, call the Toronto Al-Anon Information Service, at 366-4072, or write to P.O. Box 161, Station "S", Toronto, Ontario M5M 4L7.

THE WORM DERBY IS COMING!!!

RENTING APARTMENTS (FOR THE FIRST TIME)

Many students will be renting apartments for the first time this year. It is important to know the rights and duties you will have as a tenant.

A written tenancy agreement is generally called a lease. The terms in the agreement become binding on the date set for the commencement of the tenancy regardless of when the tenant takes actual possession. They remain binding for the entire duration of the tenancy agreement and may be changed only by mutual consent of all parties who signed or agreed to it. Any term that conflicts with the Landlord and Tenant Act is not legal and cannot be enforced.

To be considered a tenant you must have exclusive possession of the premises, although the agreement may contain some restrictions as to how the premises may be used.

Negotiating the Tenancy Agreement

Read the entire lease before you sign; make sure you understand all the clauses listed in the lease. Don't be afraid to ask questions if you have any. Keep written, dated notes of any explanations given at this time. You may need them for proof of the Landlord's intention later on.

If there is a clause in the lease you object to ask to have it struck out or changed before you sign.

What to look for

The lease often contains clauses specifying:

1. which UTILITIES the tenant will have to pay for;
2. that the OCCUPANCY of the unit is restricted only to those persons names in the agreement; this could prevent you from changing roommates or taking in an extra one without approval;
3. that the landlord's consent is required before SUBLETTING, or that his approval is required for ALTERATIONS or REDECORATING;
4. that only those VERBAL PROMISES written into the lease are binding on the landlord. (If the landlord promises to paint or replace an appliance such as a refrigerator or stove, make sure it's written into the agreement;

5. that the landlord DIS-CLAIMS liability for injury or damage as listed.

ALL OF THESE CLAUSES ARE ENFORCEABLE if you agree to them by signing the lease or tenancy agreement.

Copy of Tenancy Agreement

A tenant who signs or renews a lease or written tenancy agreement is entitled to receive a signed copy within twenty-one (21) days. If no copy is received by that time, all the tenant's obligations under the lease, including rent payments, are temporarily suspended until it is delivered.

Rental Payments

The landlord can ask you to pay your rent in cash. You don't have the automatic right to pay by cheque or mail, but the landlord can agree to let you do so.

You are not legally obliged to pay your rent by post-dated cheques at the landlord's request, but you can agree to do so if you wish.

Rental Unit Condition Report

It's a good idea to have the landlord fill out and sign this type of form noting any existing damage or defects at the time you move in, not before. Keep your copy to refer to when you're ready to move out. That way the landlord can't try to recover later on for damage caused by someone else.

Deposits

The landlord can ask for a rent deposit equal to the last month's rent, and this can only be used to cover the actual final month's rent. It cannot be used, for example, to pay for repairs or to cover rent arrears for another month.

A tenant is entitled to receive 6% interest per year on this rent deposit from the landlord, payable each year.

A landlord who wants to recover from a tenant for damage to the unit, now has to apply to a judge of the County Court, who may either order the tenant to make or pay for the repairs, or order the tenancy terminated. The landlord CANNOT deduct any amount for damage from the prepaid rent without a court order.

Deposit with Offer to Lease

Some landlords ask for a deposit when you sign an application or offer to lease as proof of your intention to enter into the tenancy agreement. Check to see if the landlord actually intends to credit this amount against the rent if your offer to lease is accepted.

If for some reason you do not actually sign the lease later on, you will probably lose this deposit, since this type of deposit has not been specifically prohibited in the Landlord and Tenant Act.

This deposit would only be returned to you if you withdrew your offer to lease before the landlord accepted, or if your offer was refused.

Women's B'ball Captures the OCAA Championship

After winning the League title with a 11-2 record, the Women's Basketball team travelled to St. Clair College in Windsor to face host team St. Clair Seneca, and Algonquin for the Ontario Championship.

The final game was a battle of the Toronto Colleges Seneca and George Brown and a battle it was. At the end of regulation play the teams were tied at 60-60 putting them into overtime. Early in the overtime period, Des Lake's jump shot and driving lay up put the Huskies in front and was never relinquished. The final score was a close 68-66 for our Women. With a high score of 29 points Des Lake led all the players with 53 for the Tournament and was also the high scorer in league play.

As Coach Alex Barbier later commented "a good team effort is important and the team did give it, resulting in our fourth title in 5 years. With promising players like Julie Stines, Deana Oliver, Sharon Ashley, and Carol Buckles returning our team will be looking forward to next season."

WOMEN'S CAGERS 4TH IN THE NATIONALS

Following their Ontario title, our women's team travelled to Montreal for the National Championship against Colleges from Québec and Nova Scotia.

In the quarter finals, we drew the wild card team which happened to be from Seneca. The Toronto rivalry continued and we once again defeated our opponents. The semi-final pitted us against the strong and well-balanced team from John Abbott who eventually won the championship.

The third and fourth places were decided when we lost to Nova Scotia by the score of 41-40.

SOUTH AMERICA, DEEP IN THE Amazon Jungle...
... THE SHORES OF THE ORINOCO... WHERE CIVILIZATION CAME TO AN ABRUPT HALT....
LIVES Panther, the King of the Amazon
Jungle.

TODAY I SHALL GO TO DISCOVER WHAT LAND LIES
BEYOND THE RISE AHEAD

THE NATIVES
SAY IT IS A LAND OF EVIL,
IT IS A TABU
I DO NOT KNOW THEIR REASONS, BUT TODAY I SHALL DISCOVER THEM.

THE BOOK BARN

They really live up to their motto of "Canada's most irresistibly priced bookshop." Owners Cary Grant (no, he's no relation, but he'll sell you a book about his famous namesake) and Austin Lynn (the Houdini of the Book business) maintain a firm policy of selling books on all subjects at the lowest possible prices. The shop does not deal primarily in new releases, so the owners are free to search world wide for bargain books. There are some brand new hardcover books at prices lower than paperbacks. Every book is reduced up to 85% off publishers' list price. Canadian books, children's books, crafts and hobbies, art, travel, history, fiction, gardening, sports, you name it. There's bound to be a title to interest you. 11 Church St. 368-4911.
